Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C.

Dear Admiral Turner:

It has taken me a long time to finally write this letter, but I finally am taking the time.

About two years ago, LCDR Butch Williams told me in a letter that my sword was being returned to me via a reserve squadron at Willow Grove, Penna. To date, I have not received the sword and I have checked with the various units here in Norfolk to see if someone had received it and failed to notify me. I have been unable to find it or trace it at Willow Grove.

The price of a new sword is $35.00 and I would appreciate it very much if I could be reimbursed for the sword.

Again, I am sorry that it took me this long to write this letter, but I have not needed the sword and it kept slipping my mind.

Very respectfully yours.

Robert W. Kohler
Commander, U.S. Navy
